The authorizations must meet the following requirements (alternatively):

- two witnesses must verify on the authorization with their signature that the client signed the authorization that was already written with his/her own hands in front of them or that the client stated in front of them that the signature on the authorization is his/her own (the address of both witnesses also has to be indicated on the authorization),
- the client's signature or mark has to be certified by means of a court or a public notary on the authorization.

An authorization given to an attorney-at-law is valid when it is in written form and is signed by both the client and the attorney-at-law with their own hands.
